Statement about bikes and pricing

As with much of the cycling industry, the global pandemic and subsequent increase in demand for bikes has led to a shortage of materials and cycling components here at Baum Cycles.

Unfortunately, this means that lead times will vary and complete bike pricing may be subject to change (due to brands revising their pricing structure and passing that on to us).

We understand that this may be frustrating, but we promise to keep you updated of any delays and do everything within our power to help you ride your own race with us at Baum Cycles.

The bicycle components market is currently changing rapidly. With more new products coming to market, we are seeing constant changes in pricing and availability.

As the market stabilises, we will release further updates to this document with component upgrade options and pricing.
